Euraqua UK - New Products

Alpha Batch Controller – Originally designed and built for a client who needed a borehole pump and supply solenoid to be turned off after a pre-set volume of water, with an automatic daily reset and manual over ride.

This flexible control system is ideal for private supplies with a limited supply licence and can be tailored to monitor multiple input signals and power multiple output relays.

Other applications include enhancing filtration and softening plant control and flexibility.

Custom plant—We can build custom built products to meet your exact requirements, please see examples above and below. No matter how simple or complex please give us a call.
